Background

Village Cinemas built one of the largest multiplex cinemas in the Czech Republic. Andel City was to be their flagship with 11 auditoria, 1 THX rated auditorium and a further 2 “Gold Class” auditoriums for a more intimate and luxurious experience.

Sound Solutions were chosen to design and install the acoustic treatments and THX baffle wall for this project in central Prague and worked closely with the award winning Architect, David Perera of Jestico & Whiles.

Challenges

As the first specialist fit out contractor on site our responsibility is high as the entire fit out program depends on our ability to keep to schedule.

Multiplex cinema acoustic treatment contracts are significant logistical operations. We are required to send our skilled installers and materials from our UK and European suppliers to site in order to meet a fast track installation program.

Solutions

With many years experience in acoustic wall treatment design and installation we were able to ensure our program was unaffected by main contractor progress.

We achieved this with our pro-active site and project management teams identifying potential issues in advance.

Results

The completed multiplex cinema met the design brief and to budget exceeding the expectations of our client and their architects.

Client Testimonial

Sound Solutions ability to hit the ground running and provide a very professional service on a difficult project in central Europe was especially impressive.

They were able to bring their experience, quality workmanship and management skills to Prague and merge seamlessly with an international cast of contractors and craftsman.
